A Call to submit RADC funding proposals for Living and Learning programs is extended to:

RADC members (including Faculty representatives)
College of Wardens
Residence Councils 1 and 2
House Committees and Residence Associations
Residence Tutors Council
Residence Academic Fellows
Teaching & Learning Committee Chair

Background

The University of Cape Town, Residence Academic Development Committee (RADC) are calling for new proposals for 2017. The RADC is grounded in a collaboration protocol between Residences and Faculties. The purpose of the Living and Learning projects is to further establish a way of bridging the gap between Faculties and Residences and to foster student success.

Partnerships are not limited to any particular themes but partnerships are sought which will contribute to student success. Program themes that are sought include but not limited to these core areas:

- greater sense of belonging
- student retention
- academic success

You are invited to complete the RADC funding proposal for approximately R5000-R10 000 available for the project per year.

The project leader of the proposed collaborative project should complete an online proposal using the following link:
