Zombies, survivors, Mayans and alien invaders to storm the city as UCT students hit the streets for charity

Annual Sax Appeal Magazine sale: Thursday 7 February, 05h00 – 12h00

University of Cape Town (UCT) students will storm the streets of Cape Town on Thursday 7 February, for the sales of the 80th Edition of the university's student run publication: "SAX Appeal".

The annual magazine, produced by UCT students, is an initiative of UCT RAG (Remember and Give). The magazine is sold to the Cape Town community at the start of the academic year, to raise funds for the Student Health and Welfare Centres Organisation (SHAWCO). At only R20 per copy, this year's theme is 'apocalypse'. Students will be dressed as zombies, survivors, Mayans and alien invaders.

From 05h00 to 12h00; more than 1200 student volunteers will be littered across the city, including Central Cape Town, the Southern and Northern suburbs; the West Coast and Atlantic sea board.

Motorists are urged to stay alert across the intersections where students will be. All proceeds from SAX Appeal go towards the SHAWCO. SHAWCO is a non-government organization with five centres and runs over 15 health and education projects yearly.
