Jammie bus set alight, another stoned by protesting students

The University of Cape Town confirms that a Jammie Shuttle was set alight this evening on Lower Campus outside Tugwell residence. The bus was empty and nobody was hurt. UCT will open a case with the SA Police Service for this incident and will assist in the investigation. Another Jammie bus has been stoned.

UCT is in the process of obtaining an interdict and charges are being laid with the SA Police Service (SAPS) against leaders of Rhodes Must Fall and those who are disrupting activities on Upper Campus.

SAPS and UCT security services are working hard to restore order on Upper Campus.
