UCT notes social media remarks by staff member

The University of Cape Town confirms that it has noted the social media posts that were said to be made by a university staff member earlier in the week and that were alleged to be racist in nature.

UCT confirms again that the matter is receiving attention and this involves a fair process in accordance with the procedures and policies of the university.

It must be noted that anyone alleged to have committed a wrongdoing has the right to a fair process. Until the process is concluded any assumption of guilt would be premature.
